

Monroe Rt. 80 Bidding Set

HARRISBURG (AP)—The state Highways Department Thursday called for bids Aug. 9 and 23 on 19 road improvement projects in 18 counties.

The Aug. 9 projects included: Monroe County—Interstate 80, Tunkhannock, Jackson, Pocono Type, divided highway, 63-foot median, six structures including bridge over Tunkhannock Creek; tributaries, ramps, service roads; 5.8 miles.

The August 23 projects included: Lackawanna-Susquehanna Counties—Interstate 81, right-of-way fence on Penn-Can Highway; Scranton to New York State line, 40.2 miles.

Thundershowers Cause Damage

A line of thundershowers swept some parts of Pennsylvania Thursday, dumping 1.02 inches of rain on the Philadelphia area.

At least two persons were killed and two injured in accidents on rain-slick highways. Another died in a plane crash during an electrical storm.

A Greyhound bus and a car collided on a rain-swept boulevard in the eastern outskirts of Harrisburg but only the driver of the car was hurt.

Six boys were rescued from creeks swollen by sudden rain. Two of them were pulled from a small creek in Penn Valley, a suburb of Philadelphia. The other four had been fishing in Darby Creek, Lansdowne, when a flash flood swept them into the waters. They were rescued by Lansdowne firemen.

Tighten Control On Race Pickets

NEW YORK (AP)—Leaders tightened the reins on Negro job demonstrators Thursday, in the aftermath of Wednesday's riot at a Brooklyn hospital construction site. There more than 40 arrests but no mass violence.

Heavy rain squalls swept the city off and on during the day, quelling the ardor of some of the pickets. They are demanding a halt to all publicly financed construction unless guaranteed a quota of 25 per cent Negro and Puerto Rican workmen on all building jobs.

A Negro scuffled with police at the Downtown Medical Center site in Brooklyn, after an officer confiscated a cache of eggs apparently intended as missiles. Police also climbed girders of the unfinished hospital to bring down Negro pickets who scaled them.

In a Manhattan demonstration, a police lieutenant grabbed a picket from in front of a moving truck, both men narrowly escaping injury or death. Pickets have consistently sought to halt construction trucks.

About 185 pickets were on hand in Brooklyn for Thursday's demonstration and one of their leaders, the Rev. Milton Galamison, told newsman:

"We are not going to let the city build a hospital for the poor without having a Negro in every room."

Texan Charges Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Texas congressman's charge that "we now have discrimination in reverse" brought an order Thursday for a House investigation of federal hiring and promotion practices.

The probe was ordered by the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee after Rep. Joe Pool, D-Tex., said, "Negroes are receiving preference over whites in government promotions. A very serious situation has developed all over the country."

The action came as Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy told senators he would be willing to accept some modifications in the administration's civil rights program.

Convention Bill Approved

HARRISBURG (AP)—The House approved Thursday night a bill for a convention to revise Pennsylvania's 89-year-old constitution.

The vote was 174-24. The Senate-originated bill, backed by the Scranton administration, was returned to the Senate for approval of House amendments.

The measure would submit the convention question to the voters at the Nov. 5 election.

Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices rode an unexciting roller-coaster Thursday and ended up with a decline.

The margin was narrow as a late rally failed to make up mid-day losses.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks declined 9.56 at 694.87 after having been off 1.80 an hour before the close.

Volume contracted to 4.41 million shares from 3.97 million on Thursday.

State Legislators Hold Off Adjournment Another Day

HARRISBURG (AP)—Legislative leaders decided Thursday night to literally hold back the hands of time and delay the official end of the 193 Legislature until sometime Friday afternoon.

A mass of details still to be settled forced the decision.

Legislature Piles More Bills On Governor's Desk

HARRISBURG (AP)—The following bills were passed by the legislature Thursday and sent to Gov. Scranton for final consideration:

Raise the weight limit on five-axle truck-trailers from 60,000 pounds to 73,250 pounds.

Adopt a boating code and establish a boating board within the state fish commission.

Prohibit the installation of radios in school buses excluding commercial buses chartered for school use except for civil defense purposes.

Transfer some 380 miles of city, borough, township, and county roads to the state highway system.

Exempt physicians and other practitioners of the healing arts from civil liability when rendering first aid in emergency cases.

Permit prisoners with demonstrated good behavior records in county jails or workhouses to hold outside jobs or take schooling or medical treatments outside the jails.

Provide civil service coverage for Allegheny County firemen and fire inspectors.

Authorize the Highways Department to build a new road in Delaware County between Folcroft and Lester "as soon as practicable."

Authorize county commissioners to make appropriations for the restoration and preservation of historical sites.

Increase the installment loan limits for state banks to $3,000 and the loan period to five years. The present limits are $3,500 and three years.

Require the Allegheny County District Attorney to be a county resident for at least two years prior to his election or appointment.

Revise the state's controversial prevailing wage law to increase from $2,000 to $25,000 the minimum value of contracts on which employers must pay prevailing wages.

Appropriate $25,000 for a comprehensive study of election laws in the state.

Appropriate $50,000 to the Department of Public Welfare for special training courses at the John J. Kane Hospital in Pittsburgh for personnel of nursing homes, homes for the aged and convalescent homes.

Authorize third to eighth class counties to appropriate funds for tourist promotion.

Make an appropriation of $250,000 to the Department of Commerce to promote mass transportation studies.

Give persons convicted of crimes credit on their prison sentences for time spent in custody prior to sentencing.

Authorize use of state public school building authority funds for construction, improvement, maintenance and operation of educational television broadcasting facilities.

Provide state subsidies for public school dental hygiene programs.

JFK Says U.S. Will Continue Tests Underground; Stands Pat On Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said Thursday that "yes, we will" continue nuclear weapons testing underground. At the same time he predicted ratification of a new treaty banning tests in space, in the atmosphere and under water.

In the realm of the gravest domestic crisis of the day, Kennedy said he assumes that his handling of the civil rights issue has cost him political support and prestige. But he said he expects his administration to "continue to follow the same course it has followed in the past."

The President talked about nuclear tests and civil rights at a news conference centering largely around those two topics.

Kennedy started off with an appeal to parents and others to urge children to return to school in September and stay in school in order to combat the drop-out problem.

Then the session with reporters took off into nuclear testing and civil rights and a spattering of other matters.

The first question was whether the President was concerned about ratification of the American-British-Soviet treaty banning all test but underground ones, since some Republicans and Democrats in the Senate have taken a "wait-and-see" attitude.

Kennedy said there is nothing wrong with waiting or seeing, and.

"My judgment is when the testimony is all in that this treaty will be ratified. I think it would be a great mistake not to. . . . I think it provides protection for the security interests of the United States and gives us some hope. Maybe that hope won't be realized, but some hope of moving towards a more peaceful world."

The chief executive had a positive, definite answer to a follow-up question whether he has decided to continue underground tests, as the treaty permits.

"Yes," he said. "Yes, we will."

But he was far less clear-cut a few minutes later on whether this country is considering giving France some of its nuclear weapons secrets in order that that nation might stop testing.

France has displayed no desire now to come into the three-power pact, although administration officials say about three-fourths of the world's nations have indicated they approve it and about 30 have said they intend to sign.

The treaty, initiated last week, is to be signed in Moscow Monday, and the Senate must then ratify it by a two-thirds majority for it to be effective.

Kennedy did hold the door open for greater cooperation with France on nuclear matters. But he said recent suggestions produced "no response from the French government" beyond remarks of President Charles de Gaulle at a news conference of his own.

On civil rights, a newsman asked:

"There are indications lately that your policies on civil rights are costing you heavily in political prestige and popularity. Would you comment on that, and would you tell us whether civil rights are worth an election?"

"Well," Kennedy said musingly, "I assume what you say is probably right. On the other hand, this is a national crisis of great proportions. I am confident that whoever was president would meet his responsibilities. Crises come in different forms."

"I don't think anyone would have anticipated the exact form of this particular crisis. Maybe last winter we were dealing with other matters. But I think it has come and we are going to deal with it."

"My judgment is that both political parties finally will come to the same conclusion, and that is that every effort should be made to protect the rights of all of our citizens, and advance their right to equality of opportunity."

Kennedy said "we just have to wait and see what political effect" will come from efforts in that direction but that he expects his administration to continue on its present course.

Cuba figured in the conference earlier when Kennedy was asked a double-barreled question whether he feels relaxation of cold war tensions resulting from the test ban treaty might affect U.S.-Cuban relations and whether the United States might act against American students visiting Cuba.

UNSPOKEN COMMENT — Mandy Rice-Davies, 18-year-old prosecution witness in vice trial of Dr. Stephen Ward in London, sticks out her tongue in apparent appraisal of decorative chandelier at opening night party for film, "Cleopatra," in London. Ward Develops Pneumonia; Believed Close To Death

LONDON (AP)—Dr. Stephen Ward lay near death Thursday night with bronchial pneumonia. A machine pumped breath into his drugged body.

Doctors at St. Stephen's Hospital reported the 50-year-old playboy osteopath took a turn for the worse after a morning operation to introduce a tube into his windpipe to help him breathe.

The apparatus is an iron lung type of machine.

Ward has not recovered consciousness since swallowing a drug overdose Wednesday morning before he was due to attend the last day of his Old Bailey trial.

The sensational eight-day case stemmed from Christine Keeler's ill-starred love affair with ex-War Minister John Profumo, whose public disgrace almost toppled Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's government.

With Ward absent, the jury found him guilty on two counts of living off the immoral earnings of Christine, 21, and her friend, Marilyn (Mandy) Rice-Davies, 18.

The judge postponed sentencing until Ward could be brought before the court. At the time it was stated that might be about next Tuesday but hospital authorities said this was unlikely.

One of Ward's attorneys stood by in the hospital, waiting for his revival and the right moment to break the news of the jury verdict.

One medical source said pneumonia was a common complication in barbiturate poisoning. Normally patients recover from their coma more quickly than Ward.

Meany Hits Administration On Work Rules Situation

WASHINGTON (AP)—AFL-CIO President George Meany told Congress if the public interest demands that rail workers be denied the right to strike, it's time to nationalize the railroad industry.

"I think this just naturally follows as night follows day," Meany told the House Commerce Committee on Thursday.

"This would be a sad day for America," he said.

Meany urged the committee to endorse his alternative to President Kennedy's proposal that the strike-threatening dispute over railroad work rules be turned over to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

He said he is opposed to public ownership of the industry.

Meany urged the committee to endorse a resolution proposed by Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., to renew peace talks under congressional supervision. A similar plan has been offered in the Senate.

The railroads have set 12:01 a.m. Aug. 29 as the deadline for imposition of new manpower-training work rules. Five on-train unions say they will strike when the rules go into effect.

Meany urged that industry and union negotiators be sent back to the bargaining table under supervision of a congressional watchdog committee.

"This country cannot afford a nationwide railroad strike," Meany said. "It would be an economic catastrophe."

But he added that compulsory arbitration to avert a walkout would never be justified "as long as you kept the railroads under private ownership for private profit."

He said he is opposed to public ownership of the industry.

Couple Hurt In Accident

EAST STROUDSBURG — A Philadelphia couple was admitted to General Hospital of Monroe County yesterday for treatment of injuries sustained in an auto accident near Milford.

Raymond Miller, 67, and his wife, Marian, 55, were reported in satisfactory condition last night.

Miller suffered severe face cuts and Mrs. Miller had fractures of both bones in her left forearm and face cuts.

Details of the accident, which was being investigated by State Police from Milford and Stroudsburg barracks, were not available last night.

Beer Licensees Included

Governor Signs Rash Of Late Legislation

HARRISBURG (AP)—Taverns which sell only beer are allowed to remain open until 2 a.m. on Sundays in Pennsylvania under legislation signed into law Thursday by Gov. Scranton.

The beer licensees were omitted from similar legislation enacted in 1961 for liquor licensees. The measure was supported by the State Liquor Control Board.

Other laws signed by the governor:

State News Roundup

Teachers Pay Hike Bill Signed

HARRISBURG (AP) — Starting salaries for new Pennsylvania teachers this year were raised from $3,600 to $4,200 under legislation signed into law Thursday by Gov. Scranton.

Scranton also signed a $35 million increase in school subsidies for the current year at brief ceremonies in the governor's reception room.

The total cost of the salary act is $23 million this year, and $63 million over a two-year period.

The subsidy increase is expected to cost about $55 million over a two-year period.

The salary legislation provides for a $600 jump in starting salaries this year and another $300 increase, to $4,500, next year.

It also comes with a mandated annual raise of $300.

Scranton commented on the signing in a statement:

"The upshot of these increases is that the average teacher salary in Pennsylvania will go from $3,480 to $6,100," which, he said, places the state 15th in the nation — as compared with the 21st position it had held — in average teachers' salaries.

Police To Spot Check Vehicles

HARRISBURG (AP) — State police headquarters said Thursday each patrol must spot check at least five cars per eight-hour tour — on around-the-clock check of 15 cars a day.

Patrol officers were ordered to check for anything from the physical condition and equipment of an auto to the possibility of finding a stolen car, operators driving while under suspension or other violations.

The department said the order was in effect many years ago, but enforcement became lax until it was revived last year.

The license number of each car checked will be recorded on the back of the patrol's daily report.

Goldwater Set For Hershey Talk

HARRISBURG (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, one of the Republican front-runners for next year's presidential nomination, will speak at a party fund-raising dinner in Hershey Oct. 10.

The office of Gov. William W. Scranton, who is himself a "favorite son" candidate for the nomination, said Goldwater had accepted an invitation to address the dinner. The specific site in Hershey has not been determined.

A spokesman said Goldwater would be only one of many leading GOP national figures who would be invited by Scranton to appear in the state prior to the Republican national convention next year.

Chester Negro Sit-in Ends

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — A Negro sit-in demonstration which had started two days earlier in the Chester municipal building ended abruptly Thursday when officials threatened the sitters with arrest.

Twenty Negroes, representing the local National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and two affiliate groups, filed out of council chambers Thursday afternoon after police gave them two minutes to leave.

The demonstrators had been protesting the makeup of a newly-formed Human Relations Council, asserting it is not representative of the Negro community. The group wants 50 per cent Negro representation.

Mayor Joseph L. Eyre promised to meet with NAACP officials in a week. He said the city would consider adding three or four more members, of the NAACP's choosing, to the Human Relations Council. At present, seven of the 19 members are Negroes.

Good Doctor Bill Approved

HARRISBURG (AP) — The good doctor who pauses at the scene of an accident to render first aid can do so in Pennsylvania without fear of being sued with a lawsuit under new legislation passed Thursday by the General Assembly.

The measure — dubbed "the Good Samaritan bill" by legislators — was sent to the governor after agreement by the Senate on a minor amendment made by the House. The bill was passed by the House 177-0.

Specifically, the legislation provides that no physician or practitioner of the "healing arts" shall be held liable for any civil damages in rendering first aid at the scene of an emergency if he acts in good faith.

The "good faith" clause included the proviso for "a reasonable opinion that the immediacy of the situation is such that the rendering of care should not be postponed until the patient is hospitalized."

Voters Lose 30 Days Of Sign-up Time

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County voters will be denied 30 days of the normal voting registration time, Monroe County commissioners announced yesterday. The commissioners who also act as the county election board, pointed out that state election laws, specifically section 951-16, prohibit registration of voters within 30 days after each election. This means that persons who would normally register at this time, must wait until the end of August to begin registration.

Because the state election laws prohibit registration of voters on Sept. 16, persons wishing to register will be deprived of the 30 days of normal registration, excluding Sundays and holidays, according to the commissioners.

Leo Achterman, legal solicitor for Monroe County, said the irregular scheduling of election caused the mix-up in the delay of the registration until the end of August.

Achterman noted that the matter of later registration may be taken to a local court or the State Supreme Court, should a person wishing to register, contest the restitution of registration.

Achterman said a local court would pass judgment on section 951-16, as to whether or not the section of the election law was valid at this time, because of the special election.

In the event that the local court would be called upon to act on this matter, a more binding form of statement would have to come from the state supreme court, according to Achterman.

Achterman declared that, in order for the statement from the supreme court to be binding, and applicable in all cases in Pennsylvania, an amendment to section 951-16, dealing with the days and hours of registration and election, use of polling places, payment of rentals, places of registration, use of school buildings, and proper public notice, would have to be made.

Both Rt. 80 Section Lanes To Open About Aug. 19

ALLENTOWN — Both lanes of the new section of Interstate Rt. 80 (Keystone Highway) from Arlington Heights in Stroud Township north to the Scotrun intersection with Rt. 611 will be opened at the same time during the week of Aug. 19.

Charles J. Sincavage, assistant district engineer at the Allentown office of the State Highway Dept., said yesterday that work on the southbound lanes had been delayed so that a joint opening is now planned.

The highway department originally planned to open the southbound lanes from Scotrun to Stroudsburg on July 20, but rainy weather delayed work. It was incorrectly reported yesterday that the southbound lanes were opened July 20.

State Highway Secretary Henry D. Harrah said Wednesday the new section would open "on or about Aug. 19." Yesterday Sincavage said, "We are hoping to open the entire section someday during the week of Aug. 19. We definitely are trying to get it open that week." Aug. 19 is a Monday.

He said it would be safer and less confusing for motorists to open both lanes at once, since workmen are on the southbound as well as northbound lanes.

Instead of a two-day detour of northbound traffic through Stroudsburg, as originally planned, a last minute detour for a few hours only is planned during removal of the earth ramp now taking northbound traffic from the end of the completed section to Rt. 611 in Arlington Heights.

All cement for both the north and southbound double lanes is finished. Workmen are erecting guard rails and building cement-stabilized shoulders with blacktop surfacing.

There is also some seeding of grass and mulching to be completed.

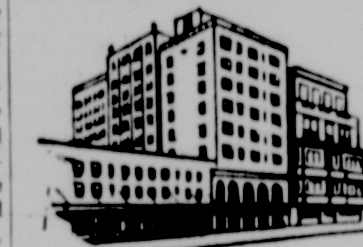

Businesses In Pike Burglarized

MILFORD — Several businesses throughout Pike County were burglarized during the last week, State Police reported yesterday.

Included in the burglaries were the Village Diner, a road stand owned by Andrew Erback of Lord's Valley, the Matamoros Diner, and the Coffee Mill Restaurant, owned by Squire Durr.

According to police, all the burglaries occurred early in the morning, and stolen articles included cigarettes, and a small amount of change. There has been no estimate of the total loss as yet.

Police said the thefts may have been committed by the same person or persons.

Car Crash Injured Still Fair

EAST STROUDSBURG — No change was reported yesterday in the conditions of four persons injured in a car-truck accident Wednesday afternoon on Route 30.

Listed in fair condition at Monroe County General Hospital are LaVerne G. Markham, 25, of East Stroudsburg, RD 2; his wife, Sylvia, 19; their son, Darius, six months old, and Ernest J. Caretta, 39, of 130 Green St., Stroudsburg.

Markham suffered broken ribs, cuts of the face and elbow and a bruised pelvis in the crash; his wife had cuts of the face and both legs and a cut tendon in the right leg; their son has a concussion, forehead cuts and a broken leg, and Caretta suffered a broken back and cuts of the leg and face.

Caretta was the driver of the truck, while Markham was operating the car.

Adm. Koch New Reserve Head

GLENNVIEW, Ill. (AP) — Amid the blare of martial music and the shrill of horns' whistles Rear Adm. George P. Koch was piped aboard yesterday at the Glenview Naval Air Station as the new boss of the Navy's air arm "weekend warriors."

Koch, as chief of the Naval Air Training Command, succeeds Capt. Elbert M. Stever, Koch, 52, is a native of Cresson, Pa., and Stever, 50, a native of Hammondsport, N. Y.

The impressive change of command ceremony in the station's drill hall was witnessed by relatives of the principals and by many commanders of stations under Koch's command.

'Professional Stockholder' To Lecture At Tamiment

TAMIMENT — Lewis D. Gilbert, the busiest "professional stockholder" in the United States, will lecture at Tamiment-in-the-Poconos Monday.

Gilbert is a quick-witted, nimble-minded man who has been called a number of names. "The Nation's Corporate Conscience", "America's Number One Stockholder" and others not so flattering, by corporation presidents and chairmen of the board.

A "gadfly" for insistently buzzing around the executive management heads of the nation's stock-issuing businesses and industries, asking unplanned for questions in well planned stockholder meetings.

One Man Crusade
He calls himself a one man crusader to save the capitalistic system.

Two Local Officers At Indiantown

INDIANTOWN GAP — Approximately 20 officers and enlisted men of the 2650th Allentown Army Reserve School Unit opened their annual two-week encampment at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation.

The reservists of the 2650th are responsible for the administration and instruction of a two-week Army Intelligence School being conducted for officers from throughout the United States.

In addition to the administrative instructional capabilities, the unit provides housing, food and pay facilities for its personnel and the student officers.

The men of the 2650th, commanded by Col. Thomas D. Callahan, of Oreland, arrived in advance of the student group and will remain until all personnel have departed.

Two members of the 2650th are from the Stroudsburg area. Lt. Col. John J. McCluskey, of 789 Bryant St., Stroudsburg is the deputy commandant of the 2650th. An attorney in Stroudsburg, Col. McCluskey and his wife, Mary Jane, have four children: Mary Jane, age 10; Elizabeth Jo, age 8; John Jr., age 7; and Amy, age 6.

Lt. Col. Jack H. Lantz of 233 East Brown St., East Stroudsburg, is the Assistant S-3, in charge of training.

An insurance representative in this area, Col. Lantz, and his wife Barbara, have three children: J. D., age 16; Jere L., age 14; and Barbara Jo, age 11.

Both Col. Lantz and Col. McCluskey are active members of the 2650th which meets weekly on Thursday evenings at 1901 South 12th Street, Allentown.

Pen Argyl Man Eyes State Senate

BETHLEHEM — State Rep. Gus P. Verona of Pen Argyl and James F. Prendergast of Easton, both Democrats, have announced that they are available as candidates for the seat in the State Senate which Fred B. Rooney will resign after he is certified as elected to Congress.

Rep. Jeannette F. Reibman, Easton Democrat, had no comment when asked if she would be interested in the Senate Seat.

Rooney said he will resign from the State Senate to take up his congressional duties "as soon as the election results are certified by the State Election Bureau."

Lt. Gov. Raymond P. Shafer will set the special election in Northampton County to fill the vacancy caused by Rooney's election. It will probably coincide with the Nov. 5 general election.

Rooney defeated Republican Robert G. Bartlett in a special election Tuesday for the 15th Congressional District seat held for more than 30 years by the late Francis E. Walter of Easton, who died May 31 of leukemia.

Motorist Killed At RR Crossing

MILESBURG, Pa. (AP)—Police said a car ran through a stop signal at a railroad crossing in this Centre County town and collided with a Pennsylvania Railroad freight train Thursday, killing the auto driver.

Edwin Bechtel, 17, of Port Matilda, R.D., Centre County, suffered a fatal skull fracture, police said.

Civil Service Progress

Gov. William Scranton has won a major political victory in Pennsylvania by pushing more state jobs out of politics.

He rallied his sometime reluctant Republican party in the state legislature behind him to pass his civil service reform and extension bill this week.

His campaign promise had been given little hope of passing the legislature because it would step on so many political and patronage toes in both parties.

But, after spirited pleas during unusual party caucuses in House and Senate, Scranton lined up his Republican votes in both houses for the measure. All 27 Republican senators and all 106 Republicans present voted for the bill.

Basically, the civil service reform bill will put an additional 17,000 state workers under civil service and make one unified civil service system covering 49,000 jobs out of a hodge-podge of systems.

Only 27,000 of 82,000 state workers are now covered by civil service. That leaves about 55,000 state jobs open to pure political patronage, which changes with the elections and produces waste and inefficiency in our state government.

Pennsylvania has been one of the most backward states in this field.

The civil service system Pennsylvania does have is divided between legislative civil service, contract civil service and executive board civil service. These will be unified and streamlined.

New coverage is concentrated in the areas of education, health, welfare, insurance and Public Utility Commission.

The bill makes no extension of civil service protection in the departments of revenue, highways, or property and supplies. The highway department, for instance, has only 2,400 of 15,100 employees covered now.

So the bill is a partial solution—going about as far as political reality will allow—to a major state problem.

It directly affects the type of people willing to work for the state and the quality of government we receive for our tax money.

Civil service protects the jobs of state workers by forbidding their expulsion for political reasons. It has the major drawback of freezing incompetent as well as competent people in their jobs.

But the risk of protecting unqualified people is worth the better over-all efficiency of government which a larger civil service corps will give us.

Civil servants need some assurance that their jobs do not depend upon party affiliation alone if the state is to attract capable people. Gov. Scranton's bill is a step in the right direction and a very healthy triumph over squalid political avarice.

Test Ban Emotion

The White House reports that feeling expressed in letters and telegrams to President Kennedy is about 12 to 1 in favor of a test ban treaty with Britain, Russia and other nations which choose to join.

One letter from a Pennsylvania housewife said:

"In common with every other right-minded American I feel like dancing in the streets.

"For the first time in their lives I can look at my children and not be afraid.

"Thank you, Mr. President, for all the care and patience and effort you and our negotiators have put into developing this firm and hopeful agreement."

Many of the letters are reported to be even more emotional. Perhaps too emotional.

The test ban treaty is not the end of the cold war, but the beginning of a possible relaxation of tensions. It does not remove the threat of nuclear war because it does not destroy atomic stockpiles on both sides of the iron curtain.

It is a safe and sane step forward toward a more peaceful and fallout-free world, but it is not the end of conflict with the Communist world.

We believe it should be passed by the Senate and honored by all nations, but emotional visions of complete world peace are a little premature.

Rocky's Popularity

Washington — I have been keeping a rather unconventional box score since Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller married Happy Murphy. Whenever anyone voiced a violent opinion about the pair of divorces and remarriages I scored it one way or the other. It has totaled up to a thoroughly baffling tie.

Inasmuch as the box score has been of no help to me in reaching a conclusion I am passing it on to you. You may be able to add it up better.

The first player to be scored vented this almost berserk opinion of the Rockefeller-Murphy affair:

"Here's a man who left the mother of his children to marry the mother of another man's children! It's an affront to the nation!"

The player spoke with authority. He had left the mother of his children to marry the mother of another man's children.

Next to be scored was a player who rampaged:

"This will destroy Rockefeller politically — as it should."

The player is still married to his third wife, but I keep hearing things.

A player so violent in his outrage he almost blew the score sheet out of my hand raged:

"Imagine a man who could do a thing like that wanting to be President of the United States!"

The player is in a position to imagine. He did a thing like that.

By now you may be muttering to yourself: "This is just a thinly-veiled apology for the Governor of New York, Dixon must be one of those immoral Republican liberals."

I merely beg that you bear with me. The next player to be scored told me that Rockefeller has so outraged American public opinion he couldn't carry five states.

The player is a pillar of hearth and home.

He was followed at bat by another pillar of hearth and home who proclaimed apocryphally:

"Who Rockefeller marries, divorces, and remarries is his private business. It shouldn't affect his political career either way."

A player who has never himself married but makes a specialty of divorces railed that a divorced man who marries a divorcee has no business wanting to be President. The identical thing, however, was ranted by a player who has never married and eschews divorcees; a divorced man who feels all divorcees are no better than they should be; and a married man who would gladly cooperate to make his wife a divorcee.

I happened to mention my scoring operation to a man who said he had just conducted a nationwide poll on the political effects of the Rockefeller thing. He said his poll showed conclusively that Rockefeller wouldn't get a single vote in the whole country.

"My poll," he stated, "revealed that one-quarter of the women in the United States have been divorced, but never remarried. These women would vote against Rockefeller to a man."

"What man?" I asked.

"My poll," went on the pollster incoherently, "showed that one-quarter of the men in the country have been divorced, but have remarried. They wouldn't dare vote for Rockefeller because their second wives might get wind of it and fear their husbands were divorce-fanciers."

"That's half the population," I agreed. "What about the other two quarters?"

"One-quarter of the women are not divorced, but fearful that Rockefeller might have put temptation before their husbands. One-quarter of the men resent what Rocky did because they are not divorced and resent it."

"That seems utterly conclusive, although you make it sound as if Rockefeller had condemned his poor little kids to foster homes," I said. "How many people did you sample in this nationwide poll?"

"Four," he said.

The Pennsylvania Story

Midnight Oil Brigade

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Reporter's Notebook — Legislative sessions this week were (as usual) tumultuous, confusing and nerve-racking (they were other things too) as Pennsylvania's lawmakers in a fifth burst of speed (annual) donned their sprint shoes (annual) in their determined (annual) effort to clear legislative decks in a frantic (annual) effort to meet their pre-set adjournment deadline (annual).

Sessions raged into midnight and beyond as the yawning brethren of the legislative branch sought to clear their desks in three days of legislative affairs left dangling months ago. . . . Quipped one red-eyed nettled House member: "I don't know why I bothered to rent a hotel room this week—it's just money down the drain. . . . But then again, we're used to that, aren't we?"

An amusing aside however was heard from one female stroller in Capitol Park round midnight one night as she spied the lights aglow in the Main Capitol Building, commenting: "My — the cleaning women are certainly industrious tonight in the Capitol."

"To which her male companion (obviously more "in the know") replied: "Cleaning women my eye — that's the Legislature beating its brains out."

He was right — she was wrong. . . . The bill will be heavy this month!

"Press The Right Button, Mac!" — As the legislative sessions wore into the night this week in the bi-balled adjournment drive, the seediness and lack of alertness on the part of many of the legislators became obvious. . . . The (sudden) pace was tiring and it was telling.

In the 210-seat House of Representatives during one of the nocturnal forays, one red-eyed lawmaker trying to follow the heavy calendar as bill after bill was called up for final vote almost found himself on the short end somewhat ignominiously.

The electric roll call board was beginning to glow like a Christmas tree as the votes yea and nay were being recorded on the bill in question. . . . Our red-eyed friend had pressed the "nay" button indicating a negative vote on the bill. . . . Suddenly his colleague in the seat to his left turned to "old red eyeball" saying: "Hey — press the right button, Mac!"

"Huh — whatsmatter; I did vote," came the groggy reply. "Yeah — but you dumb cluck, you're the sponsor of this bill!" "Oh — for goodness sake, where's that blasted button?" wailed the confused legislator as he made the switch just before the vote was locked!

Business As Usual — One of the side oddities of the 1963 legislative session is the fact that for the first time in many a legislative moon there was no pre-set deadline for introduction of new bills.

Heretofore the practice has been to limit the introduction of new pieces of legislation to a few weeks before the final adjournment date, unless by consent of the full chamber. . . . This session there was no cut-off date — and bills were still being introduced this week, even though under the rare but very best of conditions it requires a minimum of five days for legislation to pass all of this providing there are prompt committee reports.

The idea of course in introducing the impossible — to clear legislation is for the individual lawmaker to produce a for-the-record bill, in most cases to appease the clamor of some constituent or constituents back home. . . . In such cases, "the record" shows the bill as having been duly introduced (but it doesn't point up the detail of utter futility!).

Try and Stop Me —by Bennet Cerf

Allie Reynolds, one of the all-time great pitchers for the New York Yankees, hit only one home run in his long major league career. "It was off Early Wynn in Washington," recalls Reynolds. "I didn't see it good, so I ran all the way. When I galloped by second, I saw the third base coach holding up his hands, so I thought he meant me to go back. I slid back into second base! It was pretty embarrassing, especially since it was the opening day of the season and the President of the United States was in the stands!"

Do you feel you're getting old and running down hill? A few statistics gathered by Rev. Herbert Chase should hearten you: Socrates gave the world his wisest philosophy at 70. Voltaire produced "Candide" at 84. Goethe began "Faust" when he was 60 and finished it at 82. Hugo wrote "Les Misérables" when he was 62. Jules Verne's most imaginative thrillers were written after he was 70 — the same age at which Noah Webster completed his dictionary. Feel a little spry?

Francis Caburn tells of a typically lachrymose storekeeper in northeastern Vermont who has never let anything upset him very much. At the height of the 1937 hurricane in those parts, for instance, the storekeeper, watching trees, barns, and trucks swept away, would only admit, "It's a bit airy, ain't it?" There was a day too, when perfectly attired sportsman from Boston dropped in to inquire, "Do you carry shot for grouse?" The storekeeper regarded him sourly, then answered, "If you mean cartridge for partridge, we've got it."

Sid Caesar, star of "Little Me" and one of the funniest comedians ever seen on TV, is, in private life, a reader of serious books, and a man who prefers being at home with his family in Long Island to hitting the night spots and shining in cafe society.

Caesar's greatest temperamental outburst of the season was directed at a horse. The steed bolted one morning and threw Caesar's wife from the saddle. Caesar overtook the horse — and punched it in the nose! When he calmed down, he was asked if the horse had seemed surprised. After reflection, he replied, "It seemed to shake him up pretty good!"

Lovers of archaic words will be interested to hear that around Harvard Lampoon headquarters this season it is unfashionable to use the phrase, "Up hill and down dale." The way Lampooners put it, it is "up tump and down dangle."

Off The Record

—By BOB CLARK

The last political column until another rolls around.

Democratic leaders in the 15th Congressional District are tossing this comment at public relations men:

"The only way the Republicans can ever win a fight for representative in this district is for South Bethlehem to secede from the union."

The man behind the gun in Fred B. Rooney's triumphant campaign for representative was Leonard Randolph, Stroudsburg resident.

Randolph who was former Gov. David Lawrence's ghost writer while the Pittsburgh firebrand was housed in Harrisburg was Rooney's mouthpiece during the hectic six-week drive for the 15th District Congressional seat of the late Francis E. Walter. State and national Democratic officials were high in their praise of Randolph's handling of Rooney's campaign, especially in the feed of material to the press mediums.

Leonard took a leave of absence from his S h a p p Foundation (Philadelphia) to actually send the state senator to Washington.

Republican officials of the 15th District are thoroughly disgusted with their party's efforts in the city of Bethlehem. Bartlett for Congress workers expected to lose the Steel City but did not foresee the spanking the final results told.

GOPers, almost to a man, claim that little or no work was done in South Bethlehem.

From this writer's sortie through Rooney's halfwack one could hardly get the impression that Bartlett was even running for office.

In high Republican circles the feeling was that Monroe County GOPers did a good job. However there were rumblings in the Bartlett camp that the pre-election prediction of a 2500 majority for its candidate wasn't met.

But if you look at the supposed 3800 Democratic registration majority in Monroe and the nearly 1200 plurality for Bartlett in the election you find the county GOP worked hard and did get results.

Perhaps the high GOP bosses were thinking of Nixon's 4800 bulge over President John F. Kennedy in the last presidential election. "This, we are sure, will never happen again in our lifetime."

Gene Brown

About Town

Ye Jolly Cynic:

Again from Mr. Hughes' book on the Ordeal of Power as he reminisces about the '32 campaign when "they" were going to clean up the "mess" in Washington:

The opportunities for creating a "mess" in Washington are so limited — the chances to make bad matters worse are so inexhaustible — that no administration should ever underestimate its capacity to surpass the folly of its predecessor.

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — The White House is in a big sweat over that little-noticed House Rules Committee proposal for a sweeping investigation of the government's multi-billion dollar research and development operations.

Apparently fearful of embarrassing and politically painful disclosures, the White House is making strenuous undercover efforts to block the TNT-loaded probe.

More than $14 billion a year of taxpayers' money is now being spent for research and development; approximately two-thirds in contracts to private industry; some 10 per cent in grants and contracts to universities and other non-profit organizations; and the remainder by government agencies and scientists.

Busily aiding the White House's scuttling maneuvers are a half-dozen powerful committee chairmen, spearheaded by Representative

Scuttling Attempt

Carl Vinson, D-Ga., long-time head of the Armed Services Committee.

Reason for this remarkable backstage alliance is the feeling of these influential chairmen that the proposed investigation by a special "blue chip" committee would cut across their own jealously-prized jurisdictions and dig into matters they consider reserved wholly for them.

Other opposing committee-men are Representatives Harold Cooley, D-N.C., Agriculture Committee; Thomas Morgan, D-Pa., Foreign Affairs Committee; George Miller, D-Calif., Science & Aeronautics Committee; Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., Education & Labor Committee; William Dawson, D-Ill., Government Operations Committee.

To aid in axing the "blue chip" probe, Representative Vinson has directed one of his Armed Services subcommittees to immediately launch an inquiry of Defense research.

Representative Melvin Price, D-Ill., chairman, plans to do that next week. Other members of his group are Representatives Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y.; Otis Pike, D-N.Y.; Jeffrey Cohelan, D-Calif.; Frank Becker, D-N.Y.; Durward Hall, R-Mo., and Robert Stafford, R-Vt.

What It's All About — Representative Howard Smith, D-Va., veteran chairman of the potent Rules Committee, proposed the sweeping research investigation without advance notice to House Democratic leaders.

It was a complete — and disturbing — surprise to them and the White House.

Particularly as Smith's resolution was bipartisan, with both Republican and Democratic signers, as follows: Representatives Carl Elliott, D-Ala., Richard Bolling, D-Mo., and Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, one-time campaign manager of the late Senator Robert Taft.

Speaker John McCormack, Mass., sought out Bolling and told him:

"Your resolution has touched off a revolution. A half-dozen committee chairmen, whose committees have jurisdiction over agencies with huge research programs, are up-in-arms. They are girding to do battle against you. What's it all about?"

"You'll have to ask Judge Smith," replied Bolling. "It's his resolution, not mine. I signed it to find out what's going on. I've already heard from Carl Vinson. He told me he's going to fight us all the way."

Smith explained to his committeemen that he decided a sweeping investigation was necessary after making a private study of his own of a few research projects and being "shocked" by what he had uncovered. In a 24-page speech he will deliver when his resolution is taken up in the House, Smith will particularly assail the Defense Department, National Aeronautics & Space Administration, U.S. Information Agency and the Disarmament Agency for "wasting millions of dollars" on useless research.

Under the Rules Committee proposal, the investigation would be made by a special five-member committee selected by Speaker McCormack.

Smith's personal choice for probe chairman is Representative Elliott, Ala., rated as a moderate and on good terms with both sides of the issue.

The resolution is certain of approval by the Rules Committee. Its fate in the full House is another matter. With the White House, Vinson and other important committee chairmen against the "blue chip" probe, its prospects are highly conjectural.

House insiders give it only a 50-50 chance. However, Republicans are expected to give it solid support.

Why White House Worries — Two top White House assistants are in charge of dish-ing out research grants and contracts running into millions. They are Ralph Dungan, member of the President's staff for many years, and Dr. Jerome Wiesner, science adviser to the President. Dungan usually has the final say on who gets what and how much.

Fall Victim's Rites Tomorrow

PEN ARGYL — Funeral services for William Frederick Clementson, 67, of 915 George St., Pen Argyl, who died as the result of a fall from a tree in the backyard of his home Wednesday afternoon, will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Swoyer Funeral Home here.

Meanwhile, an autopsy has been ordered to determine the cause of death. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. J. G. Oliver of Pen Argyl.

State Police at Easton said Clementson was trimming branches from a cherry tree, working from a ladder. He fell about 25 feet.

His wife, Marian, told troopers and Franklin H. Reed, Northampton County deputy coroner, that she had been watching her husband work from a point near the tree and had turned to walk to the house just before he fell.

George T. Kametz, county coroner, said it is not known whether Clementson suffered a heart attack, causing him to fall, or whether he died of injuries suffered in the fall.

A retired locomotive engineer for the Lehigh and New England Railway, he is survived by his wife, the former Marian Gross, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Jane Lauer, Easton, and Mrs. George Hoch, Wind Gap, RD 1.

Arthur Kroll's Funeral Held

SHAWNEE — Funeral services for Arthur P. Kroll, 63, of Shawnee, were held yesterday in the Shawnee Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Wesley W. Crowther officiating. Burial was in the Shawnee Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Charles Balmoss, Willard Stettler, Claude Treible, Kenneth Stettler, Arthur Smith and Jay P. Welter.

The Lanterman Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Ex-Swiftwater Resident Buried

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — Funeral services for Mrs. Laura Hoadley Dochow, 85, of Grand Rapids, Mich., formerly of Phillipsburg, N. J., were held Tuesday in the Van Strelen Funeral Home in Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Dochow died Monday in Sunshine Hospital in Grand Rapids, where she was a patient for five months.

Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., she was the daughter of the late Isaac Whitman and Julia Bogart Whitman Heller. She was raised in Swiftwater, Pa., and was well known in the Stroudsburg area.

She was the widow of Paul Dochow, who died in 1958 in Grand Rapids. Her first husband, Jonas Hoadley died in 1930 in Phillipsburg. She moved to Michigan about 40 years ago.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Lewis Sierseveld of Grand Rapids; two sisters-in-law, Anna, of Easton, widow of George Heller, and Mae, of Phillipsburg, widow of Joseph Hoadley; four grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

Blairstown Man's Rites Held

BLAIRSTOWN — Funeral services for William Strasselle, 79, of Blairstown, were held yesterday at 2 p.m. in the William R. Thomas Funeral Home with the Rev. Harold C. Eaton officiating.

Cremation in the Maple Hill Crematorium in Wilkes-Barre followed the services.

Did Rooney's Catholic Faith Help Bartlett?

Some Demos: Yes; Others: No

By Jim Ottaway Jr.
Daily Record Editor

STROUDSBURG — Did the Catholic faith of Democrat Fred B. Rooney help Republican Robert G. Bartlett, a Methodist, win Monroe County in the special election Tuesday?

Some Democrats believe it was the main reason for Rooney's defeat. But other Democrats and most Republicans say it was not.

On the other hand, political pundits in both parties acknowledged that Rooney's faith probably did him more good than harm throughout the district — especially in predominantly-Catholic South Bethlehem which gave Rooney most of his 6,000-vote winning margin.

The fact that Rooney did better in Monroe County than either President Kennedy in 1960 or Gov. Lawrence in 1958 — both catholic Democrats who lost the county — suggests that religious feeling is playing a fading role in Monroe County.

Democratic Majority

Rooney was defeated by Bartlett in Monroe County by 1,174 votes. The score was 6,474 to 5,300. But Kennedy was beaten more soundly. He lost by 4,987 votes. The score then was 11,299 for Nixon and 6,312 for Kennedy.

Bartlett's victory in Monroe County was another upset for county Democrats who hold a voter registration majority.

The latest registration figures used by both candidates' headquarters election night show 11,025 registered Democrats in Monroe County and 7,614 registered Republicans — 3,411 majority.

One of the major reasons for Republican victories in Monroe County is the conservative nature of many Pocono Mountain Democrats. Another reason advanced is the fact that major Democratic candidates in recent elections have been Catholics. There were reports Tuesday of Republican party workers urging voters they drove to the polls or met there not to vote for Rooney because he is a Catholic.

And Bartlett for Congress folders were found in an area Methodist Church one Sunday morning. But there were not widespread reports or complaints.

Nevertheless some Democrats feel it was a major although not a public issue.

Stuart F. Pipher, Tannersville Democratic candidate for county commissioner, said, "I think it was the main issue. You heard it wherever you went in the county."

Pipher, a Methodist, said some people felt there were too many Democratic candidates who were also Catholics.

Pipher also suggested that the recent voting in the state assembly on a bill allowing private and Catholic parochial school students to ride public school buses had stirred up some anti-Catholic feeling.

Democratic County Chairman W. C. G. Peterson felt Rooney's Catholic religion had been an issue but not a major one in the campaign and in his defeat in Monroe County.

"I am personally convinced that it was not made an issue by Bartlett's headquarters. It was not an organized campaign. The fact that Kennedy lost the county by 4,987 votes and Rooney only lost it by 1,174 votes shows it was not an organized campaign, but perhaps some misguided people did use it."

"I would never accuse Bartlett of that sort of thing," Peterson said.

Rooney Did Better

Leonard Randolph, public relations chief of the Rooney for Congress campaign, and a Stroudsburg resident, said, "I know religion hurt Rooney in Monroe County, but not as badly as it hurt Kennedy in 1960 or Lawrence in 1958."

"It seems to me that there was a large turnout, not because people wanted to vote against a Catholic, but because they wanted to vote," Randolph added.

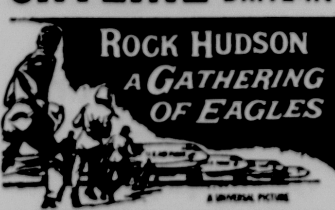

Republican Denial

A spokesman in the Bartlett for Congress campaign headquarters said Bartlett tried to keep the religious issue out of the campaign and had certainly not asked party workers to use Rooney's religion against him.

The spokesman said: "If people were doing it, they

Foreman On Buck Hill Job Killed

BUCK HILL FALLS — A 55-year-old foreman was instantly killed at 8:45 a.m. yesterday when the shaft of a crane broke and a 250-pound load of steel rods fell upon him.

Joseph W. Walsh of West Pittston, an iron worker foreman, sustained a crushed skull and face and crushed chest, according to Daniel G. Warner, Monroe County chief deputy coroner.

Warner said a two-inch vertical shaft broke, freeing the controlling wheel of the cable drum while the crane was raising 250 pounds of steel rods used in reinforcing concrete.

Walsh was employed by Eschenbach and Son of 403 N. Eighth St., Stroudsburg, sub-contractor for concrete and steel erection for the addition and alterations to The Inn here.

General contractor for the project is John A. Robbins Co., Inc., of 310 Center Plaza, Philadelphia.

Warner said Walsh and another ironworker, Hugh Rogan of 919 Wood St., Avoca, were walking beneath the crane when the shaft broke. The coroner said that the crane operator, Frank Dymond of Stroudsburg, apparently felt the shaft give way and shouted a warning to Walsh and Rogan.

Leaped To Side

Rogan leaped to one side and was not injured, Warner said. He added that Rogan was near the end of the crane and apparently tried to run away from the falling load.

Warner said the falling steel struck Walsh in the forehead area. Walsh's son, Frank, was also employed on the project, but apparently did not see the accident happen. Walsh is also survived by his wife, the former Margaret McHugh.

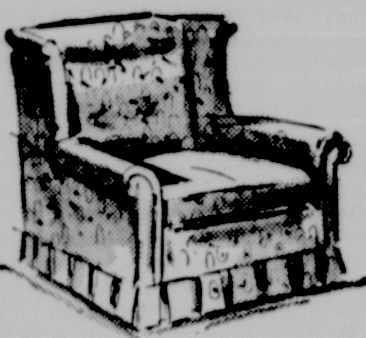

Warner released the body to the Neil J. Donnelly Funeral Home of Pittston.

U. S. Authorities Arrest Jamaican

STROUDSBURG — Oscar E. McFarland, 27, an employee of the Penn-Stroud Hotel, was committed to Monroe County Jail yesterday on charges of violating U. S. immigration laws.

He was transferred to Philadelphia later in the day for a hearing there. McFarland is a native of Jamaica.

Over-Flow At Both Institutions

County, Hospital Heads, Confer On Aged, Incurably Ill

STROUDSBURG — Montgomery F. Crowe, president of the board of trustees of the General Hospital of Monroe County, conferred with Monroe County commissioner yesterday, for the purpose of finding an outlet for the aged and incurably ill now in the hospital.

Crowe, Harry J. Smith, superintendent of the hospital, and Charles Swisher, assistant superintendent, pointed out that there are at least 16 such cases at the hospital who are occupying needed space.

The Monroe County Home at Kellersville is unable to receive any more cases, according to the commissioners.

The $296,435 Federal grant for the County Home recently announced by State Sen. Fred B. Rooney, has not been officially received by the county commissioners as yet. Atty. Leo Achtermann, legal solicitor of Monroe County said.

Until the over-crowded conditions in the county home and the hospital are rectified, both institutions will be working at a disadvantage, the commissioners concurred.

The proposed 54-bed addition to the home is not under construction, but architects Rinker, Kiefer, and Rake of Stroudsburg are proceeding with preliminary earth samplings in order to determine the consistency of the base upon which the addition will be built, E. J. Rinker announced.

Rinker attended the commissioners meeting briefly to determine whether the commissioners felt it necessary for the firms involved to take the earth samples.

He also asked if any official word on the $296,435 grant had been received by the commissioners. Rinker is awaiting word so that he can open the way for advertising of bids for construction of the addition.

The Hospital's superintendent Smith said "We need a tremendous amount of help. There are anywhere from four to 12 patients in the halls." Smith pointed out that the hospital is forced to send aged patients to the Carbon County home, because of the overcrowded conditions in Monroe County's home.

Solicitor Achtermann summarized "The new addition to the County Home will be filled by the time it is finished."

Achtermann also expressed concern over the fact that no official word has been received from the government about the grant.

Family Room Makes Living Easier In Modest Ranch Home

LONG AND LOW—Planters recessed below the deep roof overhangs accentuate the low silhouette of the attractive three bedroom ranch house. The verticle board siding, with a touch of brick, maintains proper color and texture balance. Main features of the house are its well located family room, and two and-a-half baths. This type of home is often seen in an attractive corner setting, with trees to one side to create shade and depth.

Other Features

THE two bathrooms are back-to-back for plumbing economy.

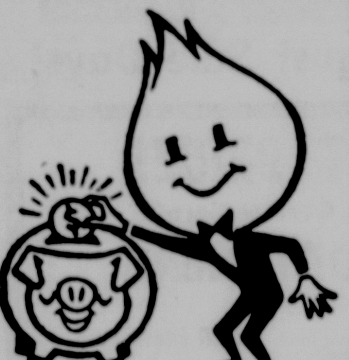

But the clearly informal area is the eye-catcher of the house.

The kitchen was designed to save steps. Nearby is a utility room, which also serves as a "mud room" for the service entrance, and contains basement stairs.

There is also a lavatory here, convenient not only to the kitchen and family room, but the garage and back yard, too.

The house contains a full basement, which can be developed to the owner's taste for recreation and storage. Facilities for the laundry may also be made in the basement.

A STITCH IN TIME
BE SURE to enamel the woodwork with semi-gloss enamel before applying the flat paint, latex or alkyd, to the walls, says the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association.

One-Story Home Has Sensible Room Plans

"FORM follows function" is the phrase architects use in tracing the evolution of design. Today's House of the Week is a perfect example of the truth of the adage.

The main characteristic of today's brand of living is informality, and this handsome one-story house, with a 210-square-foot family room as the hub of daytime activity, follows this function well. Every other aspect of the house, including its modest size, likewise was dictated by contemporary family needs.

The house contains only 1,500 square feet of living area in overall dimensions of 29 feet eight inches deep by 79 feet four inches wide. Yet it is so well laid out it is perfectly suited for a family of four or five.

Designer of the three-bedroom home is architect Fenick A. Vogel, a man of 30 years experience in suburban home design. The house is design J186 in the House of the Week series.

Its basic floor plan is rectangular with just enough deviation from straight lines to generate interest without adding unnecessary cost. The exterior features vertical board siding, accented by brick, with a straight and uncluttered foot line. The built-in planters in front are shaded by a deep roof overhang.

Inside, a central foyer divides living and sleeping areas and leads directly to the well-positioned family room.

The family room is accessible from all four sides, and projects slightly to the rear where sliding glass doors separate it from the rear terrace. An island counter divides the kitchen and family room; the two rooms combined offer more than 320 square feet for daily activities.

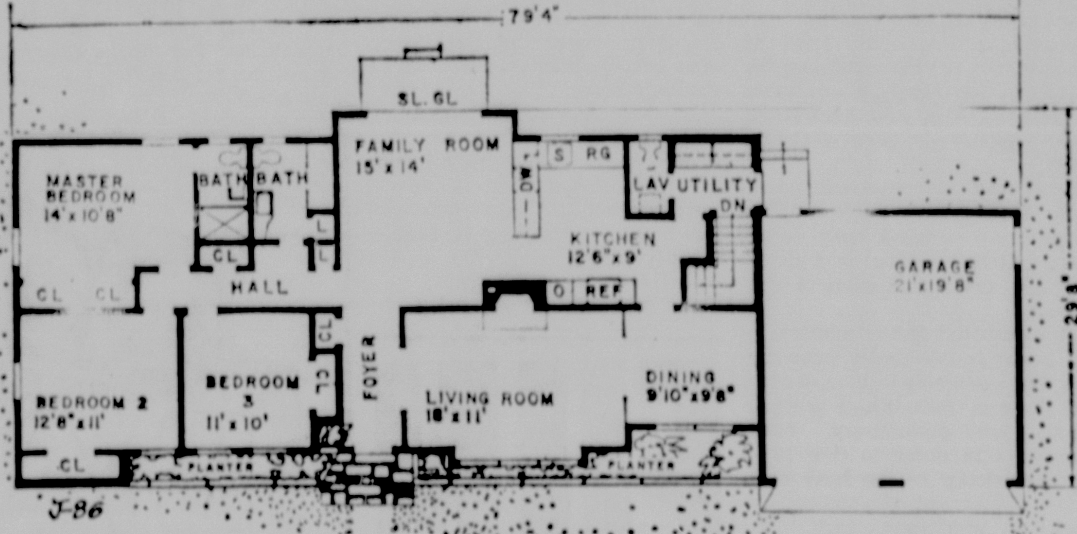

Additional Details
While the accent is on the informal area, architect Vogel also designed the formal living and dining rooms with utmost care.

A box bay window overlooking the front yard, and a grand fireplace on the opposite wall, provide excellent opportunities for interesting furniture groupings. Wrought iron dividers separate the dining room which is almost a perfect square. Folding doors, or a screen, could be put here for further privacy.

The bedroom wing offers excellent use of available space; enough hall area to prevent traffic congestion but nothing wasted.

There are a number of nice design features in the sleeping wing. First, notice the natural sound buffers between the wing and the living area, and surrounding the master bedroom.

FLOOR PLANS — Access to the family room is gained from each of its four sides. The house contains 1,500 square feet of living area, not including the garage. A full basement is also featured. The family room plus the extra access of a small terrace, if space permits, creates many possibilities for entertaining friends.

J-86 STATISTICS

A three-bedroom ranch containing 2½ baths, living room, dining room, family room, kitchen, utility room, central foyer, double garage and full basement. Contains 1,500 square feet of living area not including garage, in overall dimensions of 79 feet four inches wide by 29 feet eight inches deep.

Ranch Home Has No Heating Problems

RAMBLING ranch and tricky split-level houses offer no problems for modern heating systems.

The heating industry has also solved the difficulties created by other developments in house construction such as large glass areas and floor-to-ceiling glass walls.

Time was when the ranch-type house, sprawling over a large ground area, presented a problem to the heating industry. But the challenge has been met, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

matation Bureau, by forced circulation hydronic (hot water) heating. A small but powerful electric pump sends water at any desired temperature to the most remote heat distributors.

Similarly, the bi-level house, with below-grade rooms, also offered a challenge which the heating industry has met.

The answer has been found in a dual system consisting of panel heating with pipe coils for the below-grade rooms, and baseboard heating for the other rooms in the house.

Hot water is such a flexible heating medium that it can be adapted to the most difficult conditions, says the Bureau. In the case of split-level houses, two zones can be set up with a thermostat and a circulator for each zone.

In the same way, a house with one or more rooms having a large glass area can be kept comfortably warm regardless of exposure factors. By having such rooms on a separate piping circuit, the heat input can be separately adjusted as required.

Hot Pipes Melt Snow

YOU can avoid snow-shoveling chores this winter without moving to Florida, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

This hazardous task can be eliminated by having an automatic hot water snow-melting system installed in the walks and driveway of your home. Any experienced plumbing-heating contractor can provide detailed information about the benefits of the piped hot water system of removing snow.

HYDRONIC HEATING GOOD FOR NEW AND OLD HOMES

A HYDRONIC heating system (heating with hot water) is easily installed in new homes and in most old houses, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

Every bathroom and powder room should contain grab bars placed in strategic locations around the bathtub and shower stall. Acting as an extra measure of security, grab bars should be secured to the studs of the back and side walls of the tub or shower.

GRAB BARS NECESSARY IN BATH

MODERN bathrooms combine safety and convenience — and safety, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. Every bathroom and powder room should contain grab bars placed in strategic locations around the bathtub and shower stall. Acting as an extra measure of security, grab bars should be secured to the studs of the back and side walls of the tub or shower.

Open Windows Alter Water Heating Systems Fuel Consumption

WHAT effect do open bedroom windows at night have on fuel consumption? Should bedroom convectors and radiators be turned on or off at night?

Answers to these and many other questions pertaining to the operation of hydronic (hot water) heating systems have come from research at the University of Illinois, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

The University engineers found that when bedroom windows are open at night, it makes no difference in fuel consumption whether or not the bedroom's hydronic heating units are on or off. If the units are off, a great deal of fuel will be required the next morning to restore proper heat — as much as would be needed to sustain heat throughout the night.

It was also found that reducing the thermostat setting at night, but leaving all windows closed, can result in a daily fuel saving of approximately five per cent.

It was observed that the daily fuel consumption is the same when bedroom windows are open and the thermostat setting is reduced at night as when the windows are closed and the thermostat setting is maintained at 72 degrees F. at all times.

If you like to have your bedroom windows open at night, it is a good idea to add weatherstripping to the bedroom doors to prevent leakage of cold air to other rooms of the house.

Householders can get full information about other fuel-saving methods for individual situations by asking an experienced heating and plumbing contractor to survey the house heating system.

SUMMER'S soaring temperatures can put a real strain on the water heater in your house, especially if it's under-sized.

Of course, water heaters don't shrink, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, but families grow, an extra bathroom is added to the house and new water-using appliances are installed.

Such changes can, in effect, make it seem that the water heater has, indeed, "shrunk."

Add hot, humid weather to these altered conditions and chances are, the Bureau points out, that the water heater in your home is functionally under-sized.

During the summer, there is more frequent bathing by all members of the family. Usually, the amount of laundering increases. There are more children's soiled play clothes and additional adult wash and wear garments. Finally, other hot water requirements remain about the same. Hot water is needed for cooking, washing dishes and for other household chores.

The minimum realistic size for any home water heater is 40 gallons. If yours is a smaller type, a change is in order. If you're building a new house, it makes good sense to anticipate increasing demands.

A major problem with an under-sized water heater is corrosion. This happens when water is too frequently drawn from the tank. The inside surfaces corrode because they are over-exposed to dissolved oxygen. Pushed beyond capacity, the inadequate water heater wears out rapidly.

For a few dollars more in the purchase price, a properly sized water heater will not only provide adequate amounts of hot water at all times, it will also have a longer life. This saves the homeowner money in the long run.

Here's the Answer

QUESTION: Can you tell me something about making a wooden radiator enclosure? I haven't had too much experience with wood-working, so please don't get me involved in any complicated piece of construction.

Answer: The simplest type of radiator enclosure has two sides, a front and a top; no bottom and no back. Merely build a frame which will fit over the radiator. When you have tried it out to be certain it is the right size, take it off the radiator and complete it.

To permit enough heat to get into the room, the front and top of the enclosure must have openings. This can be done in a number of ways. One is to bore a lot of holes in the wooden front and top. While this requires no skill, it takes considerable time and is not too effective.

Some kind of metal screening or other perforated material is better. It's easy to attach it to a wooden frame and then nail pieces of wood around the edges for a neater appearance.

Ryan Twins Sworn In As Midshipmen

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Norbert R. Ryan, 17, and John R. Ryan, 17, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert R. Ryan of Oak Lane, Mountainhome, were sworn in as Midshipmen in the class of 1967 at the Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md.

Both are undergoing summer training, called "plebe summer," at the Academy in preparation for joining the Academy's Brigade of Midshipmen in the fall.

The two months of military indoctrination during the summer is designed to teach new plebes the ways of the Navy and Naval Academy. They are taught to march, and to wear the Navy uniform correctly. They learn Navy terminology and begin some academic work. When upper-classmen return in September, the new plebe class will be "squared away" and ready to enter its first academic year.

Midshipmen undergo an extensive training program during their four years at the Academy, including three summer training cruises. The curriculum consists of 160 semester hours, and every midshipman must participate in one of the many sports offered.

Upon graduation, midshipmen receive a bachelor of science degree and are commissioned Ensign in the Navy or Second Lieutenant in the Marine Corp, Army, or Air Force.

Stocks Given To A Child

Q. I do hope you can clear up this point for me, once and for all. What is the status of stock given to children? If I make gifts of stock to my children, is there a tax due to the Federal government, even though no cash is involved? Also, if the children sell the stock at some future time, how is their cost determined?

A. OK, suppose we try to answer this, once and for all. The mailing shows that it is a point that interests a great number of people and confuses many.

If you make gifts of stock, cash or anything else of value to children or adults it is most unlikely that there will be any tax due — unless the value involved is quite high.

Each person has a "lifetime exclusion" of $30,000 and "annual exemptions" of $3,000 from Federal gift taxes. Please note that I wrote "Federal gift taxes."

Don't get this confused with Federal income taxes. The Federal income tax, with which we should all be familiar, is something else. The lifetime exclusion provision of the tax code means that each person can give away up to $30,000 and not pay any Federal gift tax on the gifts. For a married couple, making the gifts jointly, the lifetime exclusion doubles — to $60,000.

Above and beyond this, the annual exemption means that each person can give away $3,000 to each of as many people as the donor wants to, without paying any Federal gift tax. And for a married couple making joint gifts, the annual exclusion doubles — to $6,000.

If the recipient (the person who receives the gift) sells the stock at a profit, his tax-cost basis is the same as the tax-cost basis of the donor.

But, if the recipient sells the stock at a loss, his tax-cost basis is either the donor's tax-cost basis or the market value of the stock at the date of the gift — whichever is lower.

Here again, don't confuse this with the tax-cost basis of stock received through an inheritance. In the case of inherited stock, the tax-cost basis is the value put on the stock when the estate is settled — normally the market value on the date of the death of the person who left the stock. That seems to be another point many people do not understand.

And it is important for everyone to know the tax-cost basis of stock or any other capital asset he owns — whether purchased, received by gift or inheritance. You must know the tax-cost basis, so that if and when you sell you will know whether you have a profit or a loss for capital gains tax purposes.

Looking back over what I have written, I have only one more thought. And that is full agreement with an old hand in the financial world who said that our personal affairs are tax-dominated. He pronounces it "tax-dominated."

Q. Is there any time limit that companies whose stocks are traded in the over-the-counter market (not listed on any stock exchange) must observe in releasing its report of profits (or losses) for the year?

A. For many such companies there is no time limit at all. That is because, unless the company is either a public utility holding company or a registered investment company, there is no

OUT OF STATERS
OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Oklahoma's state parks drew nearly nine million visitors — about three and a half times the total population of the state in the 1960 census — during 1962. But state Planning and Resources Board surveys show that more than half the Oklahomans interviewed have never spent any time in a state park.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

"Now I know why babies cry until they're changed," said one young mother as she came leaking into Glen Brook Country Club after being caught in mid-course by that thunder storm. Most of the 18-hole golfers were just ending the first nine or starting the second when the lightning started flashing, and they made it to the club on time.

Not so fortunate were the nine-hole golfers. Abandoning their iron golf clubs where they were, they came pelting for home, sending up geysers of spray as they came. Once all were safely gathered in, you could still see the lightning but the thunder didn't have a chance against all the chattering and scrambling around for foursomes.

Men golfers, using the enforced idleness to get some lunch until the storm cleared, might as well have been having lunch in the Bird House at the zoo with all the chirping, hooting, twittering and cackling going on around them.

That didn't faze one young gentleman, however, for whom the bird sounds changed to a chorus of coos. He was hugged, petted and passed from arm to arm and it didn't bother him a bit. Of course Nicholas Ruster-Flagler, Jr., arriving to have lunch with Grandpa Nitraver, is only two months old. At 20, he'd probably run like crazy.

Crazy like a fox, that's Irv Goldberg of the Depot staff, who has a new non-paying publicity job as tub-thumper for the local Red Cross. He and Emily Krandonick are inaugurating what they hope will be a series of radio programs on "This Is Your Red Cross."

The first "Irv and Emily" show tonight at 6:10 will be on the blood program, and if Irv is as persuasive at buttering up prospective donors as he is this columnist, they ought to be going gallons over at the next Bloodmobile visit on Aug. 15.

NO SITTING AROUND FOR CITS—Senior Girl Scouts who are taking the Counselor in Training Program at Camp Appenzell teach games, above, as Sally Ferree, Harriet Horn and Nancy Eilenberger are demonstrating for Peggy Prosser and Barbara Koerner.

Counselors In Training At Day Camp

Appenzell — Six Senior Girl Scouts have completed the final two weeks of the four week Junior Counselor in Training Program at Camp Appenzell, Stroudsburg Pocono Girl Scout Council's Day Camp, and will now go to Camp Archibald, the council's established camp in Susquehanna County, to receive training in waterfront skills.

The girls received the first two weeks of their training at Camp Treble, the day camp located near Shawnee and then came to Camp Appenzell, near Redders for the second two weeks of the course.

This is the first year the Counselor in Training Program has been offered through the Monroe County Day Camps. The course is under the direction of Miss Eloise Cohen, unit leader, and is conducted by the Council in order to train its own Senior Scouts to become camp counselors. The training program is a two year course, four weeks each year.

The course is divided into the Junior CITS who receive basic counselor training, and the second year Senior CITS who receive training in advanced skills and leadership in the out-of-doors. The Juniors attend four weeks of theory sessions with a minimum amount of time spent in putting some of it into practice in the units under the supervision of the trainer while the Seniors attend two weeks of theory classes and then go out into the units to work as counselors-in-training.

The program provides general counselor training for older girls and gives opportunities for vocational exploration and for fun and adventure while training in a new field. It also discovers leadership potentialities in the Senior Scouts.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Collins Van Gorden of East Stroudsburg.

William James Sheeley — Mr. and Mrs. William N. Sheeley, 4 Linden St., Stroudsburg, announce the birth of a son on July 28 at the General Hospital. He weighed 9 pounds and has been named William James.

They have two daughters, Jenny Lou, who will be 5 in September and Susan Anne, who will be 3 next month.

Mrs. Sheeley is the former Joan C. Plant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Plant of Forty-Fort. Paternal grandmother is Mrs. Louise Sheeley of 4 Linden St., Stroudsburg.

Gloria Ann Hardy — A daughter, Gloria Ann, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hardy of Oak Lane, Mountaintop on July 27 at the General Hospital. She weighed 8 pounds 9 ounces. Older children are Helene, 7½ and Joseph, 6½.

Mrs. Hardy is the former Helene Horgan. Paternal grandmother is Mrs. Mary Hardy of Mahanoy City.

Kevin Howard Dymond — Their first child, a son, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dymond of 39 Rose St., East Stroudsburg, on July 20. He weighed 7 pounds and has been named Kevin Howard.

Mrs. Dymond is the former Miss Judy Cramer, daughter of Mrs. Thelma Cramer of 39 Rose St., East Stroudsburg. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Claude Dymond, of 13 Oakland Ave., East Stroudsburg.

Brooks Edward Roberts — Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Roberts of Bangor RD announce the birth of a son, on July 24 at the General Hospital. He weighed 6 pounds 13 ounces and has been named Brooks Edward. They have two older children: Thomas 9½ and Lorene 6.

Mrs. Roberts is the former Lucille Brown, daughter of Mrs. Ada Williams of Bangor and Thomas Brown of Wail Gap. Paternal grandfather is George Roberts of Slatford.

Older children are Steven, 17; Gloria Jean, 16; Donna May, 13; Deborah, 9 and Wade, 7.

Mrs. Van Gorden is the former Margaret Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Miller of East Stroudsburg. Paternal

Girls who have completed their Sophomore year or who are Juniors or Seniors in high school may apply for placement in a Counselor-in-Training Unit. Applicants must be recommended by their leader and be interviewed by the camp director or co-director.

Girls who have completed the four week course are Harriet Horn, Susan Baker, Brenda Bess, Nancy Eilenberger, Sally Ferree and Mary Ann Fish.

Mrs. Roger Acker is director of the two day camps in Monroe County which is one of the six counties forming the Stroudsburg Pocono Girl Scout Council.

Mitchell Andrews

Concert To Feature Trio Of Musicians

Mount Pocono—Third of the trio of outstanding musicians who will be heard tonight in the annual concert at the Mount Pocono Methodist Church is Mitchell Andrews, pianist.

His growing reputation has been advanced by recitals and solo appearances with orchestras throughout the East and Midwest, and his recordings as soloist with Leopold Stokowski in works by Frank Martin and Bartok and his solo album, "Contemporary American Piano Classics."

He has also appeared on national TV networks as pianist in the Marlboro Trio, in chamber music programs, and on tour as accompanist for distinguished artists.

Born in Iowa City, he was awarded a scholarship for study with Olga Samaroff at the Philadelphia Conservatory of Music and five years of scholarship with Rosina Lhevinne at Juilliard School of Music from which he received his B. S. and M. S. degrees. He has won ten awards and prizes in music contests and has been a member of the piano faculty of Juilliard Preparatory Division since 1956.

With Leonard Kravendick, baritone, and Elaine Weldon, violinist, the program promises to draw a capacity crowd. No tickets are sold and the public is invited. The concert will begin at 8:30 p. m.

Inge Klingel Married In Reading

Templeville, Md. — Mr. and Mrs. Claren E. Klingel of Templeville announce the marriage of their daughter, Inge, to Kenneth Kreibach of Robeson on June 22. Mr. Klingel is a former resident of Stroudsburg, son of Mrs. Margaret Klingel and the late Jacob S. Klingel.

The wedding was held in St. Daniel's Lutheran Church, Reading, with a reception for 125 guests at the Cinderside Ballroom, Brownsville, afterward. After a two weeks honeymoon in Florida, they are now making their home in Robeson.

New Lighting Will Highlight Antiques

East Stroudsburg — An entirely new lighting system will be used for the night hours of the 12th annual Pocono Mountains Antiques Show and sale to open its three day stay on Wednesday at the gymnasium of East Stroudsburg State College. The new lighting will permit a better view of the glass, china, copper, brass, jewelry and furniture to be shown by 40 dealers from seven states.

Sponsored by the Women's Aux. of the General Hospital to raise their pledge to the building fund of the General Hospital, the show will be open from 1 to 10 p. m. daily, with free parking available.

Members of the auxiliary will man a snack bar where they serve homemade sandwiches, salads, cakes and pies. Arrangements of flowers in containers will also brighten the show.

Reunion Follows Christening Of Gregory Price

East Stroudsburg — Gregory Price, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Price, 1024 North Fifth St., Stroudsburg, was baptized at the 11 o'clock service on Sunday in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church by Rev. Harold C. Eaton.

Among those witnessing the ceremony were his paternal grandmother, Mrs. E. Lafayette Price and maternal grandfather, Frank H. Smith; his aunts, Mrs. Donald Dyson and Miss Cindy Price; two cousins, Regina and Danny Dyson, and his sister, Debbie and brother, Steve.

After church, the annual Belcher family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Belcher of Long Lane Ave.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Belcher and daughter, Ramona; Mr. and Mrs. E. Lafayette Price and daughter, Cindy, Mr. and Mrs. George Price, George Jr. and Donna, Mr. and Mrs. John Belcher and Norman, Norma and Bonnie, Keith, Dave, Lynn, Deborah and Timmy, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Levanduski and Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Price and Ed Jr. and Beth Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Balmors Jr. and Linda, Cheryl, Barbara and Brenda, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Price and Deborah, Steve and Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. Barry Frailey and daughter, Tanya, who at three weeks was the youngest present. Mrs. Alice Shiffer, 91, was the oldest present. She is a great grand-aunt to many of the children.

Pocono Union Host To Joint WSCS Group

Henryville — Pocono Union Church was the setting for the July meeting of the Pocono-Paradise Women's Society of World Service with the president, Miss Ruth Henry in charge.

The group voted to renew subscriptions to "The World Evangel" and to donate $10 to the Migrant Workers Fund.

The theme of the meeting was "Prayer" with Miss Henry pointing out four incentives for prayer for missionaries: for insight, for discernment, for perseverance and for a lively faith. Mrs. Mildred Friday accompanied the singing.

Refreshments of cup cakes, cookies, pretzels, ice cream and punch provided by Grace L. Suow, Martha A. Henry and Estelle E. Barry were served to Ruth Henry, Winnie Goll, Mildred Friday, Janet Ross, Lila Henry, Vida Spangenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gray.

There will be no August meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Bogert.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

If in the past few weeks I've been wondering what became of Sally, I know now! The first Sally I heard from was Sally (Mrs. Leonard) Weiss of Honesdale, who, at the time, was up to her pretty neck in plans for the recent Wayne County Festival which she asked me to publicize on the radio. It is a year or more since I have visited Honesdale she reminded me—and that's too bad, for it is really a beautiful community filled with most attractive, friendly people.

The second Sally to contact me was a former Honesdale resident now very much our own Sally Ferree of WVPO. Sally is up to her pretty neck in something too—the forthcoming Pocono Mountains Antique Show and Sale next Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, August 7 thru 9, at State College Gymnasium, East Stroudsburg. As always, this event benefits the General Hospital Auxiliary and will be open daily from one to ten p. m. I understand that patrons of our Tea Room may ask for special courtesy tickets which allow a specified amount off on each admission.

The Antiques Show is always a really sensational gathering together of precious, old heirloom-merchandise, well worth seeing, and certainly inviting to all collectors who are knowledgeable and discriminating. Even for non-collectors, it's a treat not to be missed.

Incidentally, if you are interested in old glass, you might read this month's excellent article, beautifully illustrated, in "Woman's Day" magazine on the subject of Sandwich Glass, and see if you cannot find a few pieces at the show!

Maybe I should learn to keep my lips buttoned now and then . . . but it's difficult to do when you earn your daily bread by talking over the radio. For instance . . . the other day I was discussing the extensive array of famous make swim suits, regularly 12.98 to 23.98, now being sold at Wyckoff's, priced from 7.99 to 16.99. I described them, and said that, at this saving, no woman who really enjoys swimming could afford to be without several.

As a matter of fact, I pointed out, I had discussed swim suits and their care with such beautiful Water Babies as Miss Janitzen and others, and been told that there should be at least THREE swim suits in every women's vacation wardrobe. This permits thorough rinsing and drying of each suit between wearings, as well as a rest period during which it can return to its former shape without any danger of permanent stretching.

I even mentioned that Alma Storm of our Candy Department is the most swim-suited girl I know . . . that her mother, Elsie Cyriax, had told me Alma took NINE suits along for a vacation at the shore. (Alma says only eight—that one was too shabby to count!)

So what happens???? I return home at night to be confronted by my daughter who said, "By the way Mother . . . every woman needs at least three swim suits in her wardrobe, did you know???? So why do I have just one, from last year????"

In our Tamiment Fashion Show of June we predicted that Fake Fur would be very big this year with Wyckoff customers and with fashion-loving women everywhere. The way women are oohing and aahing over the new coats of Brazzotta on display in our Coat Department and window, we were more than right in our anticipations. These coats are glorious! What's more, some of them have collars of genuine mink and both the sheen and "hand" of precious furs. See them before you buy your winter coat. You'll luxuriate in them!

Miss Pocono Pageant Broke Down Into 3 Age Groups

STROUDSBURG — The annual Miss Pocono Mountains pageant will actually be three pageants this year, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Robert A. Miller, of Stroudsburg, founder and director.

Contests will be held for Miss Pocono Mountains, a Junior Miss Pocono Mountains and a Little Miss Pocono Mountains, starting on Sept. 21.

On that date, the Little Miss Pocono Mountains pageant will be held with participation limited to girls between five and 10 years of age.

On Sept. 27, the Junior Miss Pocono Mountains will be selected from girls between the ages of 14 and 17. On Sept. 28, Miss Pocono Mountains will be chosen from young women between 17 and 25. The 17-year-olds must be 18 by the following summer to be eligible.

Persons desiring to enter the Miss Pocono Mountains contest should contact Miss Helen Paskevich of Canadensis; those desiring to enter the Junior Miss Pocono Mountains contest should contact Mrs. Edward Bevan, Buck Hill Falls, and those wishing to enter the Little Miss Pocono Mountains pageant should contact Mrs. Robert Besecker, Box 103, Cresco.

All three pageants will be held on the stage of Pocono Mountain Joint High School at Swiftwater.

Co-Chairmen
Mrs. Dale Price and Mrs. W. Roy Williams are co-chairmen, representing the Barrett Junior Women's Club, which is coordinating agency for the pageant.

Persons desiring to enter any of the contests should submit two black and white wallet size photos

NE Hay Show Aug. 28-30

TUNKHANNOCK — North-eastern Pennsylvania District Hay Show will be held August 28-30 in Tunkhannock. The show is held in conjunction with the District Junior Hay Show.

There are two sections to the show: first, field cured or partially field cured plus non-finished; and second, partially field cured or heat dried. There are 12 classes in each division.

Potential participants should contact John H. Withrow, Monroe County agricultural extension office director.

State Economy Shows Strength

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Aside from the effects of a decline in steel, business researchers at Pennsylvania State University found evidence of underlying strength in the Pennsylvania economy during June.

Ned Skilling, university business analyst, listed as significant factors:

"The factory work week was extended to more than 40 hours; industrial power sales continued at a near-record rate; checkbooks spending was at an all-time high, and bank loans were rising at a brisk pace."

The monthly business survey observed that June conditions were dominated by the high rate of the steel production in the early part of the month, and by subsequent decline when the possibility of a steel strike disappeared.

Jailed For Tipsy Driving

STROUDSBURG — Joseph D. Salvatore, 29, of Mahanoy City, was returned to Monroe County Jail yesterday after pleading guilty to a charge of drunken driving before Floyd W. Kellogg, Stroudsburg Justice of the peace.

Salvatore was arrested by Stroudsburg police after his car struck two steel posts while en-

Stroudsburg Man Faces Hearing

STROUDSBURG — Raymond Sheerer, 37, of 7 Bank Alley, Stroudsburg, was arrested by State Police yesterday and confined to Monroe County Jail pending a hearing on charges of having no inspection sticker and no operator's license.

Salvatore also paid a total of $35 in fine and costs for operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license.
